Dear Family,

We read the book Flat Stanley by Jeff Brown. In the story, Stanley is flattened by a bulletin board that falls on top of him while he is sleeping. Luckily, he isn't hurt, just flattened.

Later in the story, Flat Stanley wanted to visit some friends in California, so his parents folded him up, put him in an envelope and mailed him to California. After a nice visit, his friends sent him back to his family.

We have created our own Flat Stanleys for a special project and we need your help! Please fold and mail Flat Stanley, along with the attached letter, to a friend or relative that lives some distance away from Oakland. Please choose a friend or relative who would be a good host by showing Flat Stanley around their town or city and taking Flat Stanley to local areas of interest. After his visit, your friend or relative will need to send Flat Stanley back to us and tell us about his visit. We would like to have all of the Flat Stanleys returned to school by March 1, so please mail Flat Stanley soon.

We are looking forward to learning about all of the places that our Flat Stanleys travel!

Your family and friends are welcome to send pictures to dlee@cndo.org

Dear _____,

Our class read the book Flat Stanley by Jeff Brown. In the story, the main character, Stanley Lambchop, was flattened by a bulletin board. Although he wasn't hurt, he became flattened. When he wanted to go to California to visit some friends, his family folded him up, put him in an envelope and mailed him to California. What a way to travel!

To help our class learn about our world in a new way, I am mailing Flat Stanley to you. I hope you will be a gracious host and show Flat Stanley around your town or city during his time with you. Please write about the places Flat Stanley visited and things you did together.

Please send the letter, Flat Stanley and any pictures you may have taken or postcards you may have collected, back to my school by March 1. My class, teacher and I can't wait to hear about Flat Stanley's "adventures" with you!

Thank you for helping me with this project. I wish I could fold myself up and visit you too!

Love,

P.S. You can also send pictures to my teacher's email: dlee@csdo.org
